ABOUT THE COVER: Featured on the cover of this season's Padre media guide are pitcher Randy Jones who was runnerup in the voting for the National League Cy Young award and manager John McNamara who led the team to its most wins ever and highest finish in the standings.

The cover was specially designed for the Padres by Chuck Beebe of the San Diego Evening Tribune.

RAY A. KROC
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

It seems like there must be a thousand ways to describe the owner of the San Diego Padres, Ray A. Kroc of the worldwide McDonald's Corporation. Fact is, that figure of a thousand just might be on the low side.

When he purchased the club just prior to the beginning of spring training in 1974 he vowed to turn the Padres into a contender.

A project of this magnitude certainly can't be accomplished overnight but the Padres are making heady in-roads towards this goal.

During the off-season last year the Padres added more veteran depth to the outfield with the acquisition of Willie Davis and came up with one of the top third basemen in the National League in Doug Rader.

In 1955 at age 53, Mr. Kroc took the concept of licensing independent owners and was instrumental in creating the modern fast-food industry. The sales of all McDonald's Corporations licensed and company-owned restaurants exceeded $1 billion in 1972.

In addition, 1972 saw the opening of the 2,000th McDonald's since the chain's founding in 1955 and the sale of the 10 billionth McDonald's hamburger. Another billion was added by Jan. 31, 1973.

With restaurants in all 50 states and Canada, the chain is expanding world-wide with restaurants in Japan, Australia and Europe.

A true philanthropist, Mr. Kroc and his wife, Joan, marked his 70th birthday in 1972 by donating $7.5 million to a number of institutions, primarily hospitals and museums. And this is just the beginning of the work he hopes to accomplish in the next few years.

But, exactly who is this man Ray Kroc?

Born in Chicago, Ray Kroc dropped out of high school and joined the Red Cross ambulance corps in World War I, serving in the same company as the late Walt Disney.

He returned to Chicago following the war and turned his attention to music and radio. Learning classical piano from his mother (a piano teacher), he became music director for WGES, one of Chicago's pioneer stations. Between radio jobs, he played double piano with one of Harry Sosnik's first bands.

The Florida real estate boom provided the next episode for him. Almost as soon as he got in, the boom collapsed and he wound up back as a piano player.

Seemingly doomed, the night club business suddenly went bad and he headed back for his hometown of Chicago.

Deciding to make his career in sales, he went to work for Lily-Tulip Cup and served as the Midwest Sales Manager for 17 years.

Staying with sales, he became the exclusive salesman for a new invention, a milk shake multimixer machine.

This move was actually the first step in a long line of successes to come his way.

A small hamburger restaurant in San Bernardino, owned by the McDonald brothers, attracted his attention by purchasing eight of his machines.

Realizing that a chain of similar restaurants would use a lot of his multimixers, he started his own hamburger restaurants under a royalty agreement with the two brothers, whom he has since bought out. When McDonald's restaurants began appearing nationwide, a new era of food service was underway.

The rest is history.

By 1960, there were 228 McDonald's. In 1970 the number had jumped to 1,592 and last year that figure stood at around 2,500. Sales have been phenominal. The sales figure for 1960 was a "mere" $37 million compared to $587 million in 1970 and slightly over $1 billion in 1972.

The Ray Kroc of today has been a charitable figure in activities through the Kroc Foundation in Santa Barbara. The Foundation has benefited work in the areas of diabetes, arthritis and multiple sclerosis.

Ray Kroc is particularly proud of the continued support of the Boy Scouts of America through the organization's Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources), a national program to beautify America.

In recognition of his achievements, he has been the recipient of a number of public honors such as the "Marketing Man of the Year" as selected by the Chicago Chapter of the American Marketing Association. In 1972,

PADRES BRAINS TRUST

JOHN McNAMARA

Manager

The Padres will be heading into their third season this year with John McNamara at the helm with probably more promise than ever before.

McNamara is fast becoming the most successful Padre manager in history as he broke in with 60 victories (more than any other first-year manager in Padre history) and then followed that up last season with a record 71 triumphs and a fourth place finish, the first time San Diego had ever wound up out of the cellar.

Using this as a springboard, the Padres have set their sights on finishing the 1976 season in the first division of the National League West.

One of the most personable and knowledgeable men in baseball, McNamara got his break into the Majors in 1968 when he joined the A's as a coach after winning back-to-back Southern League pennants at Mobile (1966) and Birmingham (1967).

McNamara took over as the manager of the A's with 13 games left in the 1969 season when Hank Bauer stepped down late in the year. His record that season was 8-5 as the A's finished second. The following season he guided Oakland to an 89-73 slate and another second place finish.

From Oakland, he moved across the Bay in 1971 to begin a three-year relationship with the San Francisco Giants as a coach.

McNamara broke into baseball as a catcher in 1951 with Fresno of the California League and then split the 1952 season between Houston of the Texas League and Lynchburg of the Piedmont League.

Following a break in 1953-54 for military service, he returned to the minors in 1955 with Lewiston, Idaho of the Northwest League and then closed out his playing career in 1967 with Birmingham in the Southern League.

His best season was in 1958 when he hit .276 at Lewiston although he did have a .280 with Amarillo of the Texas League in 1957 in half a season.

McNamara began his coaching career in 1959 with Lewiston in the Class B Northwest League and continued as a manager in the minors through 1967 when he moved up to Oakland.

Apart from his Southern League pennants, he also won one Northwest League flag in 1961 as his Lewiston club defeated Yakima four games to one to take a split season playoff title.

Manager — 5-10 — 175 — B-R — T-R — Born, June 4, 1932, Sacramento, California — Married . . . wife, Kathleen with four children; Peggy (19), Mike (17), Maureen (16) and Susan (12) — Caught in the minors from 1951-52, 1955-64 and 1966-67, but never made it to the Majors as a player — Led the Northwest League catchers in double plays in 1958, 1959 and 1962 while with Lewiston, Idaho — Began managing career with Lewiston in 1959 — Also managed Binghamton (Eastern), Dallas (PCL), and Birmingham and Mobile (Southern) — Joined Oakland in 1969 as a coach and took over as manager in late 1970 — Managed Oakland to a second place finish in 1970 — Served as a coach with the San Francisco Giants 1971-73 — Named as manager of the Padres on Feb. 4, 1974 — Became the third manager for the San Diego Padres, following Preston Gomez (1969-72) and Don Zimmer (1972-73).

DICK SISLER

The Padres added Dick Sisler to the staff last season as the club's first full-time batting instructor and the move really paid off.

San Diego made a dramatic jump at the plate as the club rebounded from a lowly team average of .229 in 1974 to a more respectable .244 mark in 1975. In fact the club fell just short of setting a record for the best team average.

With a full season to get acquainted with the club, it certainly doesn't seem unreasonable to expect the club to make another improvement at the plate in 1976.

The son of Hall of Famer George Sisler, he was a first baseman-outfielder during his playing days. He finished with a .276 average for eight seasons with the Cardinals (1946-47, 52, 53), Phillies (1948-51) and Red Sox (1952). His best season was 1950 when he hit .296 for the Phils with 13 home runs and 83 RBI. His final homer of the season was a 10th inning shot against the Dodgers to win the pennant for the Phillies on the final day of the season. The pennant was the first in 35 years for the Quaker City club.

After being out of baseball for a while in the mid-1950's, he came back in 1957 to manage Nashville of the Southern Association for three years before moving on to take over Seattle of the Pacific Coast League in 1960.

From 1961 until the final portion of 1964 he served as a coach for the Cincinnati Reds. At the end of 1964 he took over the managerial role for Cincinnati due to illness to Fred Hutchinson. He also handled the Reds the entire 1965 campaign. The 1965 team led the majors in hitting with a mark of .273. Then, from 1966-70, he was a coach for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Coach — 6-2½ — 210 — B-L — T-R — Born Nov. 2, 1920 in St. Louis, Missouri — Residence Nashville, Tennessee — Married with four children.

JIM DAVENPORT

When considering the top defensive third baseman of the past twenty years, Jim Davenport has to rank near the top of the list.

Jim is entering his third season with the Padres and is one of McNamara's original coaches when he took over in 1974. A good influence on the Padres young infielders, he compiled an impressive record as a manager at Phoenix from 1971-73 before joining the Padres.

Jim attended Southern Mississippi University where he earned three letters in both baseball and football and starred at quarterback in the 1953 and 1954 Sun Bowl games. In his initial pro season with El Dorado in 1955, he led the Cotton States League in both batting (.363) and total bases (239). In his rookie major league season he led the N.L. in sacrifice flies with 17. He led the N.L. third basemen in fielding in 1959 (.968), 1960 (.961) and 1961 (.965). In 1962 he received the Rawlings Gold Glove Award as the league's top fielding third baseman. In the 1962 World Series, Jim tied records for most double plays by a third baseman (4) and most double plays started by a third baseman (4) in a series. Jim also appeared in the All Star game that year and batted 1,000 (1 for 1). In 1967, in 64 games at third base, he handled 137 chances without an error. Jim ended his active career in 1970 and served as a Giant coach from July 13 through the end of that year.

Coach — 5-11 — 175 —B-R — T-R — Born, August 17, 1933, Siluria, Alabama — Residence, San Carlos, California — Married (Betty) with five children; Jim, Jr. (23), Cathy (20), Ken (18), Don (17) and Gary (16).

ROGER CRAIG

The Padres will be going with a new pitching coach this season, but it will be a familiar face to San Diego fans—Roger Craig.

Craig, the club's very first hurling instructor when the team got off the ground back in 1969, is returning to the Padres after having served the past two seasons as the pitching coach of the Houston Astros.

The 45-year-old Craig was with the Padres from 1969 until early 1973 when Don Zimmer replaced Preston Gomez as field manager and exercised his perogative to name his own coaching staff. He then became the minor league pitching instructor for the Los Angeles Dodgers for the remainder of the 1973 campaign and then he joined the Astros in 1974.

Craig broke into the majors in 1955 with the old Brooklyn Dodgers and went on to pitch 12 seasons in the big leagues, ending up with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1966. He posted a lifetime record of 74-98 and tied for the National League lead in shutouts in 1959 with four.

He spent most of his career with the Dodgers, being with them from 1955 through 1961. Then he was picked by the New York Mets in the original expansion draft and was with them in 1962-63. From there he went on to the St. Louis Cardinals (1964), Cincinnati Reds (1965) and then finally with the Phillies.

His best season was 1959 with the Dodgers as he fashioned an 11-5 record with a 2.06 ERA.

Following his active playing career, he served as a scout for the Dodgers in 1967 and then managed Albuquerque in 1968 to a second place finish in the Western Division of the Texas League. After that, of course he returned to the major league level with the Padres.

Coach — 6-4 — 195 — B-R — T-R — Born February 17, 1931, Durham, North Carolina — Residence, Alpine, California . . . Married (Carolyn) with children Sherri (23), Roger, Jr. (19), Teresa (16) and Vikki (14).

JOE AMALFITANO

Former San Francisco Giants standout Joey Amalfitano has been added to the coaching staff and will coach third base with Jim Davenport moving to first base and Dick Sisler handling hitting instruction.

Amalfitano, 41, joins the Padres after having served as a member of the Giants coaching staff from 1972 through the end of last season. Prior to that, he had been on the staff of the Chicago Cubs from 1967-71.

A 10-year veteran with the Giants (both when the club was in New York and San Francisco), Houston and the Cubs, he posted a career batting average of .244 with 123 runs batted in. Primarily a second baseman, he played every infield position at one time or another and also saw limited action in the outfield.

Amalfitano was originally signed by the Giants as a bonus baby out of St. Anthony High School in Long Beach. He left the Giants organization in 1962 when he was Houston's number one pick for $125,000 in the expansion draft only to return a year later before finishing his playing career with the Cubs (1964-67).

His best playing season came in 1960, his first full season of action in the majors, when he hit .277.

He originally broke into professional ball with the Giants as the bonus rule in existence at that time called for him to remain on the major league level for two years. Following four years in the minors, he returned to the majors in 1960 with San Francisco.

Coach — 5-11 — 170 — B-R — T-R — Born January 23, 1934, San Pedro, California — Residence, San Francisco, California . . . Single.

WHITEY WIETELMANN

Whitey Wietelmann is in his 37th year of professional baseball. Whitey started playing baseball even before any player on the Padres roster was born.

The game is his life. Whether it is in the clubhouse swapping stories, pitching batting practice, supervising the bullpen or handling a myriad of other duties, Whitey is at home in a baseball uniform as any person can be.

He's a man of many talents—just taste his clam chowder or chili—and not the least of his skills is the ability to transmit his unbridled enthusiasm for baseball to the team's young players.

Whitey played with the Padres of the Pacific Coast League from 1949 through 1952 and served as a coach from 1960 until 1966 when he joined the Cincinnati staff. He then returned to San Diego in 1968, the city's last season in the PCL.

As a major league infielder, Whitey played for the Boston Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates. His top batting mark was .271 with the Braves in 1945.

Whitey is single and lives in San Diego.

JERRY COLEMAN

Jerry Coleman in his fifth season as play-by-play announcer for the San Diego Padres. Coleman played on eight pennant-winning Yankee teams during his nine-year major league career.

A California native (born in San Jose), Coleman spent two years in the Yankee front office after concluding his playing career and subsequently was the team's play-by-play announcer from 1963 to 1969.

He has worked sports events for CBS television as well as World Series special assignments for both ABC and NBC. When in he has announced sports for a Los Angeles television station where his assignments have included post game shows of the California Angels, UCLA sports, boxing and golf.

Coleman first was signed to a professional contract in 1942 by Yankee scout Joe Devine. In his rookie season with the Yankees in 1949, Coleman led American League second basemen in fielding and was named the League's "Rookie of the Year."

He owns a major league career batting average of .263, and enjoyed his best season in 1950 when he hit .287. In six world series, including four championships, Coleman batted .275 and in his final series in 1957 against Milwaukee he made eight hits in seven games for a .364 average.

The 1950 season was the biggest for Coleman as he was named to the American League All-Star squad and capped the season by winning the Babe Ruth Award, symbolic of the outstanding player in the 1950 World Series. During his career with the Yankees, he played secondo base, shortstop and third.

Coleman's baseball career twice was interrupted by military service. In World War II and in the Korean conflict he flew a total of 120 missions, receiving two Distinguished Flying Crosses, 13 Air Medals and three Navy Citations. He holds the rank of Lt. Colonel in the Marine Corps (Ret.).

INSIGHT

"Moving to the bullpen was a totally new concept in pitching for me. The main thing for me was to learn how to pace myself in the bullpen. You may have to get up to throw three or four times before getting into a game or you may never get in at all. You really have to learn how to pace yourself."

"The main thing for any ball player in a slump is to hang in there and keep battling. I'm a big believer in playing your way out of a slump. Sometimes a day or two out of the lineup might help if you're thinking too much, but it should only be a sort of last resort."

INSIGHT

"There really are very few players who go up to the plate swinging for the fence all the time. Of course, there are situations in a game where you have to be going for the long ball, but basically, I'm just up there looking to make good contact and if it goes, it goes. There are too many players ruined by trying for the home run all the time."

INSIGHT

"I guess you could say that I was one of those kids who always dreamed of playing in the majors. It's the old story of a dream come true when the Padres drafted me back in 1973. Every once in a while I think about how things would have turned out if I'd chosen to go into basketball, but I never give any really serious thought to it. I'm in baseball and I want to remain in the majors for as many years as I can."

FREE AGENT DRAFT RULE—A BRIEF SUMMARY: Major League and National Association clubs will meet twice a year for the purpose of drafting free agent player talent . . . Selection of a free agent will entitle a club to the exclusive right of negotiating a contract with that player.

Approximate dates of the draft meetings: Summer (June), and Winter (January).

If a club fails to sign a drafted free agent, its exclusive right to negotiation will expire on a specified date (see below) . . . Such a player then becomes eligible to be selected at a subsequent date in the secondary phase of the draft.

Date Selected	Rights Expire
Winter Draft	15 days prior to Summer draft
Summer Draft	15 days prior to Winter draft

1975 MINOR LEAGUE REVIEW

The 1975 season was quite an eventful one for the Padres as their Hawaii and Reno clubs won league championships plus Walla Walla turned in another fine campaign.

Hawaii triumphed in the Pacific Coast League championships over Salt Lake City after winning the Western Division title while Reno (shared with the Minnesota Twins) became the first team since 1970 to sweep both halves of the California League season. Walla Walla had the second best record of any club in the Northwest League, but had the misfortune to play in the same division as the club with the best mark.

Highlight of the year was outfielder Gene Richards (the Padres number one pick in the January 1975 draft) of Reno running away with everything in the California League. Richards was named the Player of the Year and Rookie of the Year and led the loop in five major offensive categories including hitting (.381) and stolen bases (league record 85).

The Padres also produced the leading hitter in the Northwest League for the fourth year in a row in catcher Rick Sweet (.350) while Jerry Turner (.329) was second in the PCL.

SAN DIEGO STADIUM

The San Diego Padres play their home games in 50,000 seat San Diego Stadium which is located in Mission Valley.

Built by and for the people of San Diego at a cost exceeding $27,000,000, the multi-purpose facility is also the autumn home of the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League and the San Diego State Aztecs.

The home dugout is located on the first base side with entrances to both dugouts from beneath the stands and directly from the respective clubhouses.

The main artery passing in front of San Diego Stadium is Friars Road, an eight-lane highway. Four major freeways are within minutes of the Stadium. From Highway 163, take the Murphy Canyon turnoff and then on to Friars Road west. From the west, or Highway 5, take Highway 8 east and turn off at Stadium Way which leads onto Friars Road. From the east, take Highway 8 west and turn off at Murphy Canyon Road north to Friars Road. From Highway 805, take the turnoff at Highway 8 east.

The Stadium was officially dedicated August 20, 1967.

The first baseball played there was on April 5, 1968, between the San Francisco Giants and the Cleveland Indians in an exhibition contest.

he was one of 10 prominent Americans to receive an Horatio Alger Award.

Early in 1973 he was named American of the Year by Lions International and was honored at the Lions-sponsored American Bowl all-star football game in Tampa, Florida.

Additionally, in 1973, he was presented a special Golden Plate Award by the International Foodservice Manufacturers Association for outstanding achievement and dedication to the foodservice industry. That same year he was given the Victoria Denise Deron Award of the Illinois Special Olympics. The citation said his "unselfish devotion to mankind has brought new hope to the mentally handicapped around the world."

MEN IN WHITE

Ray Peralta will be serving his eighth season as the Padres equipment manager, thereby making his 23rd season in professional baseball.

Ray served as equipment manager for the Padres of the Pacific Coast League from 1952-68. A nine-year Navy veteran, he has more than 30 years of government experience to his credit, having worked for more than 21 years at the Naval Air Station on North Island in San Diego.

The Padres will have a new assistant trainer this year in Dick Dent. The 28-year-old Army veteran joins the club after having served as the head trainer for the former San Diego Conquistadors basketball team in the ABA.

Dent also put in time as an assistant with the San Diego Chargers, San Diego State University and at San Diego Mesa College.

Herman Levy continues a long baseball career that transcends memories in Brooklyn, Spokane, Los Angeles and now San Diego. He serves as the Padres clubhouse attendant during spring training and then is custodian of the visiting team's clubhouse at San Diego Stadium.
